1. What is Kinship Care?

When a child cannot live with his or her parent/guardian/custodian, kinship caregivers often take over the full-time responsibility of caring for that child, providing ongoing stability, support and guidance. The definition of a kinship caregiver also goes beyond the scope of blood relative and may include an adult who has a familiar relationship/bond with the child and/or family.

Kinship care can be temporary, meaning the child eventually returns home, or moves to another home. Kinship care can also be permanent, meaning the kin caregivers will care for the child until he or she becomes an adult.

Kinship care takes many forms. When the child goes to live with a relative or close family friend, the court may also give that person temporary custody of the child. Or, the court may grant Children Services custody while the child lives with the kin caregiver.

Regardless of the type of kinship arrangement, the kinship caregivers’ voluntary commitment to step up and devote their lives to the children under their care can be a courageous, life-changing decision.
2 Finding Help with EXPENSES

Raising children is expensive. No matter how much you love the children in your care, you have to be practical. Before the children came to live with you, you probably had a household budget which met your needs. Now it may be strained to the breaking point. The good news is that financial assistance may be available to you, as listed below.

Kinship caregivers can apply at their local Job and Family Services Offices which are listed on p. 21-28 of this guide. Or they can apply online for assistance and/or report changed to their current situation by using www.odjfsbenefits.ohio.gov. The website also gives customers the ability to check on their benefit status, to see if it is approved, denied or pending.

Kinship Permanency Incentive Program

The Kinship Permanency Incentive (KPI) program was created to support children in the homes of family or friends who have committed to caring for them when birth parents cannot. KPI provides time-limited incentive payments to families caring for their kin. Eligible kinship caregivers will receive an initial payment to defray costs of initial placement and may receive subsequent payments at six-month intervals to support the stability of the child's placement in the home. The maximum incentive amount may not exceed eight payments and will not be provided for longer than forty-eight consecutive months. KPI payments are in addition to Ohio Works First (OWF) cash assistance received for the child. Eligibility requirements for Ohio's Kinship Permanency Incentive Program include:

- The court must have awarded legal custody or guardianship of the child on or after July 1, 2005 to the kinship caregiver, based on the best interest of the child.
- The public children services agency must have completed the Relative or Non-Relative Substitute Placement Approval Process, inclusive of a criminal background check, as well as completion of an application form.
- The gross income of the caregiver's family, including the child, may not exceed 300 percent of the federal poverty guidelines.

Ohio Works First Cash Assistance

Caregivers and the children in their care may be eligible to receive Ohio Works First (OWF) monthly cash assistance. To qualify, kinship caregivers must document the relationship by blood or marriage to the child. Non-relative kinship caregivers must be legal guardians or custodians to the child in care in order to qualify.

There are two ways that relatives can receive Ohio Works First (OWF) Benefits—Child Only OWF and Household OWF.

Child-Only OWF Benefits

In these cases, the Department of Job and Family Services (JFS) does not take into account your income and will provide money for you as part of the OWF grant for the children. These are called “child-only cases.” You will generally be able to receive this money until the child turns 18 or leaves your home. If you have a child-only grant, you will not be affected by many of the OWF requirements that you may have heard about, such as work requirements or time limits. However, in order to receive OWF child-only assistance, you must be willing to cooperate with Child Support Enforcement Agency (CSEA) requirements to ensure that the child’s parents are held financially responsible.

Household OWF Grants

The second way for kinship caregivers to receive OWF for the child in your care is for you to also be part of the household grant. A kinship caregiver can be included in the grant if you have no children of your own living with you. This means that the county JFS will look at your income and if you are eligible for OWF, include you as part of the grant (your spouse’s income will also be reviewed). You will receive more money because the grant will be for both you and the children in your care. However, the welfare reform requirements will apply to you. This means that you will be required to work and will be limited to three years of OWF assistance.

Most relative caregivers receive child-only grants and do not have to meet the work requirements and time limits.

Food Assistance Benefits/Direction Card

- Food assistance for kinship caregivers is possibly available as a plastic card called the Ohio Direction Card, which can be used instead of cash to buy food. No sales tax can be charged on these purchases. The Ohio Direction Card cannot be used to buy non-food items like soap, diapers, alcohol or tobacco. Your JFS caseworker will determine whether your household qualifies for food assistance by looking at the gross income of everyone in the household.

- Please note: if you have a child-only grant for the children in your care, then your income was not initially considered by JFS when it determined your eligibility for OWF. Your income may be too high for your family to obtain food assistance, even though you can receive OWF. The important thing to know, however, is that you should apply for both programs.
Child Support

- Child support may be available to any kinship caregiver who is caring full-time for a child. In order to be eligible for child support, the caregiver must have physical custody of the child. This means that the child must live with, and be cared for full-time by the kinship caregiver. The amount of child support the child’s parents will be ordered to pay to the caregiver depends on both of the parents’ ability to pay, and the needs of the child. If the caregiver is already receiving OWF for the child, child support will be paid directly to the county JFS.

- A Child Support Enforcement Agency (CSEA) is located in every county and provides services to obtain and maintain child support. A CSEA can help order child support wage withholding from a parent’s paycheck, intercept tax refunds, help to locate an absent parent, and establish paternity. These agencies are listed in this guide on p. 21-28.

Prevention, Retention, and Contingency Program (PRC)

Each county has one of these programs and they offer a variety of job training, employment assistance and other work support to lower income Ohioans. This can include clothing and shelter assistance, housing relocation and disaster assistance, and transportation assistance. Contact your county Job and Family Services Agency to apply. These are found on p. 21-28 of this guide.

Adoption Assistance

Several Federal and State programs exist in Ohio to assist with meeting children’s needs after they have been adopted. Contact your county Public Children Services Agency on p. 21-28 of this guide if you are adopting a child to see if you are eligible for one of these programs.

4. Finding Help with EDUCATIONAL SERVICES

Federally Mandated Identification and Services

- Kinship caregivers may find that the children in their care face challenging educational experiences. It is important for caregivers to have a good grasp of the rights and protections available to children in public schools, so they can effectively advocate for the children’s needs. Children who exhibit learning and behavioral problems may qualify for federally mandated identification and individualized services. Once identified, these children are entitled to appropriate interventions.

- The Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) guarantees children with disabilities from ages 3 to 21 an appropriate, free public education designed to meet their individual needs. Kinship caregivers can quickly and effectively seek school intervention by a written request for an evaluation and services.

- This letter should be mailed to the child’s school principal and superintendent. Once received, the school district must act upon the request. Under IDEA, school districts must complete action within 90 days after receipt. Testing must be completed, reported and, if the child is found to be eligible, a special education plan must be developed within this time frame. To be eligible for services, the child must have one of the following: developmental disability, hearing impairment, speech or language impairment, visual impairment, serious emotional disturbance, orthopedic impairment, autism, traumatic brain injury, other health impairments, specific learning disability, or developmental delay for children ages 3 to 9.

Special Education Regional Resource Centers

- These centers provide regular and special education teachers, support personnel, administrators and parents with resources designed to improve the quality of instruction for children with disabilities, through the delivery of instructional materials and methodologies designed to meet the individual needs of children with special needs.

Head Start

- When a preschool-aged child comes to live with you, many questions come to mind. How can you be sure the child gets a good start mentally and physically? How do you care for a toddler properly without wearing yourself out? How can you prepare the child for elementary school? Enrolling the child in Head Start may be the answer to these and other questions. Head Start is a federally funded, all-day program for preschoolers that provides education, enrichment and many other services to small children and the adults raising them. The children enrolled in the program receive breakfast and lunch through the program.

- Head Start provides the following services to children ages 3-5 who live at or below the federal poverty level, as well as children with disabilities and their families:
  - Early childhood education
  - Medical services
  - Dental services
  - Nutrition services
  - Parent education
  - Other social services

Publicly Funded Child Care

ODJFS offers financial assistance to eligible parents or legal guardians to pay for child care while they engage in work or approved school or training activities. To be eligible for publicly funded child care, a family’s income must not exceed the current limit for the program. Families can be eligible for all or part of their monthly child care expenses. County departments of job and family services determine families’ eligibility for this program. For more information, or to apply, inquire at your county Department of Job and Family Services. For your county agency’s location and phone number, see pp. 21-28 of this guide.

6. Finding Help with LEGAL SERVICES

As you raise the children in your care, you probably have your hands full. Lawyers—and, in fact, the whole legal system—may be the last thing you want to think about. You also have to be concerned about expenses. You may be thinking, “OK, if I must go to court, I’ll do it on my own.” These concerns are legitimate, but the truth is you will probably have to use the legal system, and the services of a lawyer, if you continue to raise the children in your care. You will have to take some steps to keep the children safe and secure. You will probably need legal papers just to get them medical care or enroll them in school. You may also need legal help to plan for their future or to keep them safe from harm. You will need to make decisions that require sound legal advice.

Making the Law Work for You

Legal decisions you make may affect the children in your care and your family. Only you can decide what is right for your family, not your lawyer, not your neighbor, not your best friend. Start by looking at the needs of the children in your care and thinking about how best to meet them. Then think about what will work for your family. Be honest about what you do well and what will be hard for you. Try not only to think about today, but also later when the children—and you—are older. Remember that the law is a tool, and a lawyer is someone who can help you use that tool.

Finding a Lawyer

- The decisions you make about legal issues are important. A lawyer can help you understand what each choice may mean for your family, and whether those choices might result in any legal risks. A lawyer can also help to work out agreements with the parents and present facts to the judge. If the children in your care need cash benefits or medical coverage from the government, a lawyer may help with this, too.
- The attorney you hire should be one who knows the law, who will work well with you, and who can argue effectively for the rights of the children in your care. When you find an attorney you like, preferably one who gives free initial consultations, make an appointment. Go to that first meeting with a list of the main facts of the case. Provide the lawyer with all of these facts, including facts that could hurt your case. Agree to hire the lawyer only if you feel comfortable with that individual and if you feel that you can work as a team.
- If You Can’t Afford to Pay
  Legal Services—these law offices help low-income people with common legal problems. A list of legal resources can be found at the end of this section p. 14.
Types of Legal Custody

There are three ways to gain legal custody of a child:

- A Custody Order. If a judge issues you a custody order, this means you will be responsible for the child’s day-to-day care but the parents will continue to have a legal relationship with the child. They will have a right to visit (unless the judge says they cannot) and could someday ask a judge to return custody to them.

- Guardianship. If you are appointed the child’s legal guardian, this means you will be given day-to-day responsibility for the child, while the parents keep some rights. The main difference between a custody order and guardianship is that guardianship is usually granted in the probate court, with different rules.

- Adoption. If you adopt the child, you will become the child’s legal parent in every way. The legal relationship between the child and the child’s birth parents will end, and you will decide if and when they visit. The birth parents will never again have the right to ask a judge to send the children back to them, except in extremely rare situations during the first year after an adoption decree is issued.

What is Foster Care?

Foster Care is a federally mandated program administered by public children services agencies and supervised by the Ohio Department of Job and Family Services. The purpose of foster care is to provide a safe environment for children and youth who temporarily cannot live with their families. The goal of foster care is to safely return the child to the parents or, when that is not possible, move the child into an adoptive or permanent home. In cases where a court has found a child to be abused or neglected, the court may certify a related caregiver or family friend as the foster parent.

Once a child is formally placed with a relative or friend who has been officially approved and licensed as a foster parent, the public children services agency (not the caregiver) maintains legal custody over the child. In the eyes of the law, the public children services agency is considered the legal custodian of the child and has ultimate control over all decisions concerning the child, including the decision to keep or not to keep the child in the caregiver’s home. While the foster caregiver does have certain daily responsibilities for the care of the child, the caregiver does not have legal authority unless legal custody, guardianship or adoption is pursued.
Two Other Legal Decision Making Options in Ohio

A Power of Attorney Allows you temporarily to:

- Authorize the child’s enrollment in school and access educational information.
- Be involved in the child’s educational planning and provide consent for educational activities.
- Arrange for the child’s routine and emergency medical, dental and psychological treatment.

To obtain Power of Attorney for a child, you must:
- Fill out the appropriate form.
- Understand and agree to the terms regarding Power of Attorney.
- Provide the signature of the consenting parent, yourself and the official notary.
- File the form with your local juvenile court within five days of signing.

Caretaker Authorization Affidavit If you have tried but failed to locate the child’s parents after making reasonable efforts to do so, you may obtain a Child Caretaker Authorization Affidavit. The Child Caretaker Authorization Affidavit allows you temporarily to:

- Authorize the child’s enrollment in school and access educational information.
- Be involved in the child’s educational planning and provide consent for educational activities.
- Arrange for the child’s routine and emergency medical, dental and psychological treatment

To obtain a Child Caretaker Authorization Affidavit, you must:
- Fill out the appropriate form.
- Understand and agree to the terms of the Affidavit.
- Provide your signature and that of an official notary.
- File the form with your local juvenile court within five days of signing it.

Important: Neither of these documents, a Power of Attorney or a Child Caretaker Authorization Affidavit gives you authority over a child’s adoption, marriage or custody arrangements. If you have questions about obtaining a Power of Attorney or Caretaker Authorization Affidavit, call the Ohio Department of Job and Family Services’ Kinship Program Coordinator at 614-466-1213. To download these forms, go to www.odjfs.ohio.gov or go to www.coaaa.org and look in the Caregiver Section.

The Kinship Care Program helps children avoid placement in a non-related foster home when parents are absent, and therefore helps them maintain stability in their education. Kinship families who increase their caregiver knowledge, skills, and involvement in their child’s education in turn produce children who feel loved, confident and supported in their educational setting.

This allows them to enter school ready to succeed and ultimately better able to graduate from high school. CRC's Kinship Care Program provides support to children and their caregivers in all life domain areas including food, housing, healthcare and transportation to name a few. Providing basic needs in the home is essential for children to be successful in school.
